FRAUD PROTECTION

BEST PRACTICES FOR COMPUTER OR MOBILE DEVICE USERS

- From CoBank Fraudwise

Never disclose via text message, phone call or email your personal or financial information, including account numbers, passwords, Social Security number or birth date.

Be suspicious of any emails that claim to be from a financial institution – including CoBank – a government agency or other entity, that request account information or verification of account or login credentials such as user names, passwords, personal identification number (PINs), etc.

Be wary of emails with links or attachments requiring you to change or verify your account information, as they often contain malicious code that could expose your company’s login and account credentials to fraudsters.

Be wary of add, strangely worded or unexpected emails from friends and acquaintances, or business emails that contain misspellings or grammatical errors. This may indicate that the impersonated email account has been compromised.

If you are suspicious of an email request, call the company using a publicly available phone number, not one provided in the email, to verify the request. If you use the contact information provided in the email, the fraudster might reply that the message is safe.

Use complex passwords consisting of upper- and lower- case letters, numbers and special characters; do not use names and special dates that may be known or determined by others.

FCWK is not your ordinary lender. We are committed to agriculture and want to be your one stop lender for all your ag financing needs. Call any loan officer – anytime – at the numbers listed below. We want to see you reach your operation’s goals. We have attractive fixed rate options for expansion and purchase of real estate, machinery, and other expenditures.

2025 YBS Grow Your Future Forum

Apply today to be considered for the 2025 YBS Grow Your Future Forum

In 2023, Farm Credit Associations in the CoBank District organized the first annual Grow Your Future Forum geared toward helping young (35yrs or younger), beginning and small farmers and ranchers enhance their business acumen while building relationships and learning from other producers from around the country.

In 2025, the third annual Grow Your Future Forum will be in Salt Lake City February 26-28. The conference consists of tours of area farm operations, highly regarded national speakers, and panel discussions amongst conference attendees. Farm Credit of Western Kansas will be taking one (possibly two) customer groups (2 members from each group) to this conference, covering all conference and travel expenses.

If you are a Farm Credit of Western Kansas customer and interested in attending, please complete and submit the application by January 10, 2025. Applications will be reviewed and selected recipient(s) will be notified by January 15, 2025.
